January 19, 1934 — November 6, 1951

In loving memory of our dear classmate whose untiring efforts to make each endeavor of the class a success, whose deep sense of loyalty and Christian character, whose charm of personality and ability to lend to each situation the exact touch of humor to ease its burden and to enable her fellow students to persevere, and whose composite contributions to her class, school, and community shall ever be recalled with only the highest of praise since her untimely departure November 6, 1951.

Foreword

Since this is the 25th graduating class of Fletcher High School it is altogether fitting and proper that we add one more contribution to the steps forward of those who came before us. Twenty-five years of struggle, heartaches, joys, pleasure, aspirations of the people of this community! We of the class of '52 publish this the first annual of Fletcher School in memory of all those feelings and in the hope that you who read these pages will feel the SILVER shining through and will try as we to revere these memories till "your hair has turned to silver."

Class Prophecy

Twenty years hence, and what a vast change in the lives of the '52 graduates of Fletcher High School! Just about this time in '52 we were all excited about graduation. I bet those good teachers at Fletcher are wondering what has become of us all. Well, this is just to let them know how successful we really turned out to be.

Way over on the other side of the world in China, we find Reva Ballard, a missionary, teaching all those yellow boys and girls good living as well as good English.

Coming a little closer home, we visit a dairy farm over on Mills River owned by Vernon McMinn.

Lillian Carney, who had planned to be a stock car driver, was side tracked into being a model.

The great big city of New York has attracted one young lady. Doris Wilkie owns and operates a large school of dancing and expression there.

Next, we visit Lucille Connor, Superintendent of Moore General Hospital, taking care of the veterans of the last war.

Albert Lance finally became manager of a junk yard where he sells "A" models and runs a first class pool room for his old friends of Fletcher as a means of recreation.

Morris Walker has become the manager of a class D baseball team which won a pennant every year. He's doing so well that we hear his name has been proposed for commissioner.

Roberta Russell, finally interested in the Salvation Army, became an officer in its organization and made several trips to foreign countries preaching the gospel of God and Faith in the Salvation Army.

Martha Qualls finally became a ballet dancer in the Ziegfield Follies of '72.

We are very proud of one particular member of our class who became interested in politics and became the first woman vice-president of the United States, Mrs. Betty Kent.

Myra Sue Walker became head of a school for girls in Palm Beach, Florida.

Way up in the hills is Willie Mae West living on top of a cold mountain. Her husband is in the logging business.

Betty Jean Fletcher is the superintendent of an Orphan's Home for boys, branch of the Mountain Sanitorium at Naples.

Charles Ruth became the President of the First National Bank of Asheville, and he drives the biggest, shiniest Cadillac in town.

Bobby Lee Barnwell is the Jose' Iturbi of the modern age appearing currently with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

Well, I guess you are wondering who I am. I am Doris Emory, retired show girl with a broken and ruined voice. I have just completed my book on how to acquire a slender figure in ten easy lessons.

Last Will and Testament

We, the members of the class of '52, being the truest of sports and in the best of spirits, having attained ample knowledge to graduate, do set pen to this document.

Section I

To our class mother, Mrs. Croft; Mr. Hill, and all the faculty, we leave a piece of our hearts and many thanks for their guidance and understanding.

To the Junior Class we leave our undiscovered talents and hope that they will develop them.

Section II

The following things the senior girls bequeath to Ruth Moore with the hope that she becomes Miss America someday: Lillian Carney's legs, Doris Emory's eyes, Doris Wilkie's figure, Betty Jean Fletcher's hair, Betty Kent's personality, Reva Ballard's smile, Willie Mae West's arms, Roberta Russell's nose, Martha Qualls' waistline, Myra Sue Walker's hands, Lucille Connor's teeth. Now won't she be a beauty!

The Senior Class leaves their composite knowledge of English to Earl Garren and Graden Souther with the hope that they gain a little enthusiasm and appreciation for their native tongue.

The '52 class leaves their secret of harmonius singing to Wilma Jean Owensby and hope she will pass it on to the other members of the class.

Betty Kent leaves her work on the Gamecock to anyone crazy enough to attempt it.

Doris Wilkie leaves her popularity to Jacqueline Hammett.

Roberta Russell leaves her work in the library to Jewel Watkins.

Lillian Carney leaves her peroxide job to Margaret Pack.

Martha Qualls leaves her art ability to Lewis Barnwell.

Albert Lance leaves his ability to influence people to Kenneth Souther.

Willie Mae West leaves her secret of getting an engagement ring to her sister, Marie, and Doris Israel.

Betty Jean Fletcher wills her guitar to Norma Ingle.

Lucille Connor wills to Helen Barnwell her giggles, hoping she can get rid of them.

Vernon McMinn leaves his subtle wit to Jack Holt.

Morris Walker leaves his ability to play baseball to Nickie Pressley.

Myra Sue Walker leaves her trips to Florida to Kathleen Garren.

Doris Emory leaves her work on the annual to the future annual staff.

Reva Ballard bequeaths her ability to make A's to Jo Ann Raines.

Charles Ruth leaves his title of "Most Courteous" to Joe Wier.

Bobby Lee Barnwell leaves his ability to win twenty-five dollars for good citizenship to Sarah Roberts.

To Mr. Swofford, Mrs. Edwards, Mr. Hill, Mrs. Croft, and Mr. Francis we leave a carton of "Stanbacks."

To the school we leave a friendly smile and fond farewells; may they serve future generations as well as they have served us.

Signed and Sealed
This 26th Day of May
Doris Emory
